CONQUERING A NEW COUNTRY.

The Northwest—Farming Life—How the Emigrants Arrive.

"Carleton" writes from the wilds of Northwest Minnesota to the Boston Journal.

"Wooded prairies, oak openings, hills and valleys, watered by lakes and ponds—such is the character of the region lying south of Otter Tail;
and we are traveling to day. Over all this section of water is a pure air, mingling from the hillsides of the North.

"Minnesota is one of the best watered States of the Union. The thousands of lakes and ponds dotting its surface are fed by numerous springs.

This one feature adds immeasurably to its value.

"I would say that the grain dealers of Chicago are as anxious to get the grain of Minnesota as they are to get the grain of Iowa and Nebraska.

"Minnesota is a great wheat-growing State.

The Imprisoned Females.

LONDON, September 20.

A demonstration in favor of imprisoned Females took place to day. Processions formed in Clerkenwell, and with bands of music and bell ringing flags and mottoes marched to the Clerkenwell Prison. There a meeting was organized.

The Standard says: "There a meeting was organized to protest against the imprisonment of Females in England, and to demand their immediate release. The meeting was a success, and the Females were unanimously adopted.

The proceedings were very enthusiastic, but no disturbance whatever occurred.

Local News.

Last week a one weight barrel well was struck on the flats, near Oil City.

Yesterday Capt. W. D. Gray, the well known stump orator, and Dr. Wm. D. Bush, both of this city, arrived there safely on Saturday afternoon. This fact effectively disproves the alarming rumor circulated here on Sunday to the effect that all the above named had been blown up in a premature explosion, and that they were severely mutilated and both their companions killed. The dispatch above quoted was received answer to an inquiry by telegraph yesterday evening.

The party is in the employ of A. T. Ballantine, and started from here on the 11th inst. to operate in Western Virginia. They could not obtain railroad transportation for their introduction, and Mr. Ballantine accordingly built a train twenty-four feet long by six feet beam. The cargo consisted of 500 pounds nitro-glycerine, 500 shells, and all necessary appliances for operating. Also a cook stove and camp-furniture for their private use. The boat was launched by ballast on Tuesday the 11th during the great gale, and after shooting the lower dam the boat and cargo were embarked and started for their destination. It will be gratifying to their friends here, who have been greatly shocked by the false report of Sunday, to learn that they have had no misadventure. No accident has ever resulted from the use of Ballantine's torpedo, except at the initial experiment a year ago, when the shell was forced up by the gas, and prematurely discharged near the surface.

Spain on the Rampage at Sickles' Offer.

The Spanish Government is in high dudgeon with the United States at the intimation conveyed to it by Minister Sickles that we are ready to mediate in Cuban affairs. Had Grant landed a detachment of Federal troops on the island and had been almost quashed to death by Johnson, Spain could hardly have been more excited or interested. But, as a Government, we have observed strict neutrality, and have counseled at no filibustering raids from our shores. At the same time it cannot be disguised that, as a people, American sympathies are powerfully enlisted on behalf of the revolutionists of Cuba, as they always have been on behalf of all people struggling for civil, political and religious freedom. We can see no cause for quarrel with us, because Minister Sickles makes overtures toward peace, towards colonial independence, or the transfer of the island, for a fact prior, to the United States. A year ago a revolution in Spain made her throne vacant, but Spain is still rent with intestine factions, all unable to harmonize and none able to prove its superiority. When the parents are thus divided it is no wonder that the children fret and rebel, especially if the parental Government has been not such as to inspire either of affection or attachment. It is folly to expect Cuba to succumb, while her masters are liable to set aside themselves or supersede. It is the first time that a proposition from our Government to acquire by amicable treaty the American possessions of foreign power has been presented.

The official statement of the receipts and expenditures of the National Government for the fiscal year ending July 1, 1869, is as follows:

RECEIPTS.

Customs.....$170,908,426

Internal Taxes.....140,128,249

Lands.....4,800,000

Miscellaneous.....27,752,785

Total.....$370,885,746

EXPENDITURES.

Civil Service.....$50,324,061

Pensions and Indians.....35,519,459

War.....79,502,485

Naval.....20,000,709

Interest.....130,694,293

Total.....$321,041,024

Surplus revenue.....49,832,232

The period embraced in this statement covers seven months of Johnson's administration when there were notorious frauds, and the grossest inefficiency in collecting the dues of the Government in all branches of the public service, while at the same time there was the most recklessness and profuse expenditure in every department. To the more rigid enforcement of the laws and to the more economical administration of the Government since Grant became the head of affairs, is due the highly favorable fiscal exhibit now presented.

The handsome surplus in the hands of the Treasury, to be applied to the liquidation of the National debt, is a good commencement, and the country confidently expect it to be augmented many fold every succeeding term. The large amount of interest we pay on our indebtedness will diminish year by year, as the debt decreases.

A state of peace will enable us to cut down army and navy appropriations to the lowest point, consistent with National dignity, while we can reasonably calculate that the pension list will gradually grow smaller, and we know that the severest measures of retrenchment have been adopted throughout all the departments of the Government, it being Grant's determination to cut off all sinecures and superumerates, that may be left at the public crib. From such considerations, we can safely argue, that with the rapid growth of the nation in material wealth and in population, the surplus in the hands of the Treasury when Congress shall next convene will exceed a hundred millions. A wise policy on the part of Congress will dictate that the tax should upon such a showing be lightened, and trade and industry measurably relieved from the burdens which they now support. Especially should all taxes be abolished which do not pay the cost of collection. We may hope to see an amendment at all events, of the income tax, one that shall retain the principle, while reducing the rate, and which shall devise new guards against fraud or concealment.

The hastyness of Spain to take off, only shows the jockeying for position by the American Government abroad. But as Spain did not adopt no course of foreign policy without the consent of France and England we may rest assured that that the clouds which now portend a storm will pass away with or without, and that no thunder bolts will descend on us. The views of the English Government are now out for shadowed in the tone of the London press. The Spanish are at war between Cuba and the United States, on account of Cuba, appears to be a moral impostunity, but it is universally believed just now in Spain. The war continues, this is gathering strength. Minister Sickles' proposition is inconsistent with the present position of the United States. We will not be deceived by the statements of the American sympathies in the situation, as they are not yet fully developed. It is difficult to believe Spain with a divided people, bankrupt treasury, one colony in revolt, others to lose and nothing to win can seriously contemplate war with one of the greatest powers on earth.

The French Emperor, if we may credit the Herald's special, give France some good advice, and seems to take the American view of the situation, The dispute reads.

Spain's second and latest audience with Napoleon was of hours duration. The subject of conversation was a matter of considerable anxiety. It was a certainty to day that the situation in Cuba, the revolution and chances of the war, as well as the probable future of the Spanish colonies, its part in the war, and right of rule were discussed. The English advisor is an amiable arrangement between Spanish authorities and the cabinet in Washington and masters of America by his remarks has opinion to the effect that it was concluded with its present difficulties, President Grant will be compelled to interfere between the contending parties if only to behalf and for the cause of humanity, and that he is in the interest of the American authorities, and that Spain and the fellow countrymen at large friend and opposed to such a course. Napoleon, in reply advised Spain and the Spaniards to institute, in this case, his own example and give up Cuba just as he had given up Mexico but it was too late to do so with honor. Sickles has proposed a new plan of compromise on the Cuban subject. Spain is in a state of excitement, blizing and boll over, it may be said on account of news from Cuba, the reports from Washington and Paris, and the adherence of Sickles in Madrid to the policy of seal or perhaps lose.

Spain's second and latest audience with Napoleon was of hours duration. The subject of conversation was a matter of considerable anxiety. It was a certainty to day that the situation in Cuba, the revolution and chances of the war, as well as the probable future of the Spanish colonies, its part in the war, and right of rule were discussed. The English advisor is an amiable arrangement between Spanish authorities and the cabinet in Washington and masters of America by his remarks has opinion to the effect that it was concluded with its present difficulties, President Grant will be compelled to interfere between the contending parties if only to behalf and for the cause of humanity, and that he is in the interest of the American authorities, and that Spain and the fellow countrymen at large friend and opposed to such a course. Napoleon, in reply advised Spain and the Spaniards to institute, in this case, his own example and give up Cuba just as he had given up Mexico but it was too late to do so with honor. Sickles has proposed a new plan of compromise on the Cuban subject. Spain is in a state of excitement, blizing and boll over, it may be said on account of news from Cuba, the reports from Washington and Paris, and the adherence of Sickles in Madrid to the policy of seal or perhaps lose.

The French Emperor, if we may credit the Herald's special, give France some good advice, and seems to take the American view of the situation, The dispute reads.
